LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Welcome to The 2018 Paul Bunyan Show, the largest and oldest forest industry show in the United States.

This 61st showing focuses on education, technology, products, services and entertainment associated with the forest industry.

With over 140 exhibitors, The Paul Bunyan Show represents all aspects of forest products and equipment in the industry.

So, visit with the exhibitors as they demonstrate their products and equipment, attend our educational sessions, and be sure to watch the exciting competitions we have lined up for you. Enjoy the day as you experience an industry that is vital to our economy, our environment and our quality of life.

And, last but not least, be sure to attend the Wood Auction on Sunday at 2:00 PM where all of the wood processed throughout the weekend will be up for sale to the highest bidder.

On behalf of all of our sponsors, exhibitors, and the staff and members of the Ohio Forestry Association, we welcome you to The 2018 Paul Bunyan Show!

MEET CHAMPION ATHLETES GRANT ENFINGER AND JASON LENTZ TODAY!

GRANT ENFINGER

JASON LENTZ

Champion Power Equipment athletes Grant Enfinger—with ThorSport Racing’s No. 98 Ford F-150—and lumberjack Jason Lentz look forward to meeting you at an autograph-signing session at the Champion Power Equipment booth, Friday through Sunday at 12pm.

In 2011, Grant competed in his first full ARCA Racing Series season, finishing fourth in the championship points standing, and collecting his career first ARCA Racing Series pole award. He won his first ARCA Racing Series victory on March 9, 2013 after leading 165 laps at his home track—Mobile International Speedway, Alabama. After claiming the 2015 ARCA Racing Series Championship under the GMS Racing banner, Enfinger made his way into the NASCAR Camping World Truck Series. The Fairhope, Ala. native looks to keep climbing up the NASCAR ranks and continue his racing success in ThorSport Racing’s No. 98 Ford F-150.

Born in 1985, Jason grew up in a small town called Diana in Webster County WV. Throughout his childhood, he watched his father Melvin Lentz—The King of Lumberjacks—compete all over the United States. Jason competed in his first event at the Webster County Wood Chopping Festival. It was the first Junior Division Championship held in the U.S., and Jason came out with a win. Timbersports runs in the Lentz family—one of the oldest names in the sport—dating back to the early 30’s. Jason is a 4th generation lumberjack. Jason Lentz competed for the first time in The Stihl Timber Sports Series in 2010 and has been competing professionally ever since.

We’re excited to see you at the Champion Power Equipment booth to share our mutual passion for NASCAR and Timbersports.

While at the Expo, attend a popular & educational Sawmill Seminar Series

Take advantage of this great opportunity to attend the very popular seminars presented by Brian Bond of Virginia Tech. The topics this year range from Lumber Grading, Sawing for Grade, Solar Drying, to Avoiding Lumber Drying Defects and Burning Wood for Heat.

Friday, Oct. 5

9:30-11:00 AM

Introduction to Hardwood Lumber Grading This seminar introduces participants to the standard grading rules of the National Hardwood Lumber Grading and demonstrate how they are applied. Bring a calculator and something to write with. This course provides a good foundation for the sawing for grade course.

12:30-2:00 PM

Sawing for Grade and Patterns in Hardwoods—Part 1 This is the first of a two-part session. Various sawing patterns are used to maximize the value of material produced from a hardwood log. In this session, different sawing methods will be discussed, including grade sawing and quarter sawing.

3:00-4:30 PM

Sawing for Grade and Patterns in Hardwoods—Part 2 Various sawing patterns are used to maximize the value of material produced from a hardwood log. Different sawing methods will be discussed, including grade sawing and quartersawing. Sawing exercises will allow the participants to apply their newly learned knowledge.

Saturday, Oct. 6

9:30-11:00 AM

Solar Drying of Lumber Solar drying provides an excellent way to dry small quantities of lumber inexpensively with limited knowledge of the drying process. You will learn the basics of solar lumber drying and its limitations. The design and operation of the Virginia Tech Solar Kiln Plans for the kiln will be provided.

12:30-2:00 PM

How to Avoid Defects When Drying Lumber Defects that occur during lumber drying reduce the value and volume of useable material. The causes of defects that occur during drying will be discussed, and solutions to the problem provided. How to avoid stain, end splits, surface checks and bow, twist, cup, crook.

3:00-4:30 PM

Basics of Burning Wood for Heat The basic properties of solid wood for burning to produce heat. Topics include: best species to use and why, Factors affecting the amount of creosote produced, Moisture content and storage of wood, Higher heating values, and how they are determined for different species, Factors affecting the heat produced when wood burns, What is better to burn; hardwoods or softwoods?

Our Seminar Presenter is Brian H. Bond, a Professor & Extension Specialist in the Dept of Sustainable Biomaterials at Virginia Tech.
